— FARM FACTS —

Kentucky — The Pasture State. A few days ago I drove along a busy highway, I noticed the auto license plates from other parts of the country. Cars were from the "Beef State", "Sunshine State", "Dairy State", "Vacation Land", "The Land of Opportunity", and various other states with special appellations. It made me wonder what title Kentucky could most aptly claim. We are a tobacco state but not "the tobacco state" because less than 4 per cent of our crop land is used for that crop and because North Carolina has almost twice the acreage of tobacco as Kentucky; we are famous for our fine horses but only a few individuals are involved in their production and handling; we are sometimes known as "The Bluegrass State" but that is a misnomer because Kentucky has only relatively small areas where Bluegrass is predominant and "Bluegrass" does not well describe the eastern, northern, southern or western parts of the state. As one flies over, or drives through Kentucky, there is one feature that distinguishes it from other parts of the country — the predominance of pastures and the variety of livestock grazing on it. So, I think that Kentucky can rightfully claim the title, "Pasture State". It is definitely a pasture state and one of the best in the country. Our rolling fields, our wide variety of pasture grasses and legumes, and our diversity of livestock enterprises puts Kentucky in top place as a pasture state. Most of our livestock is of the grazing type. Our dairy cattle are predominantly pasture fed, as are our beef cattle and sheep. Where other states depend principally on grain, silage and hay for their livestock feed, Kentucky's farmers depend upon the extent and quality of their pastures for livestock profits. And, incidentally, Kentucky's opportunity in agriculture lies largely in the ability of its farmers to expand, improve, and utilize their pasture lands. Here it is almost mid-winter and much of our livestock is still on an all-pasture ration, while, in many competing areas stockmen have already had to draw on their supply of stored feed. But there are millions of acres of land in Kentucky that are still idle, waste and unproductive. It is the conversion of these acres to productive pastures that offer an opportunity for expanding Kentucky's farm income.

Past Month Full For Kirksey FHA

The Kirksey Future Homemakers of America have had a full month for November. They have participated in many activities. Mrs. Price from the Du Barry company gave the girls a demonstration on "applying make-up and removing it." Some were given facials. She was enjoyed by everyone.

The FHA girls sponsored a skating party at the Murray Roller Rink, November 17. Every one had lots of fun. It was sponsored as a money making project. For the regular monthly meeting held in the early part of November, Eva Mae McCallon presented the program. The program was a panel discussion on "Activities Future Homemakers Can Carry Out in Home, School and Community." Those on the panel were Mrs. Howard Barzell, Nancy Bazzell, Mrs. James Gray and Dana Gray. A new FHA gavel was presented to the chapter by one of the mothers and the president was presented a president's pin.

Norma Doores, assistant Historian, resigned so an election was held for a new one. Marilyn Youngblood was elected. The Kirksey Future Homemakers of America have certainly had a busy month. We hope the patrons of our community understand more fully how important an organization FHA really is. Eva Mae McCallon, Kirksey FHA Reporter.

Eye Safety Is Stressed By Professor

CHICAGO — (UPI) — Christmas toys are becoming more dangerous to children's eyes than Fourth of July fireworks, an eye expert has warned parents. Professor Frank W. Newell, of the University of Chicago Department of Surgery, said seemingly innocent toys are causing a mounting number of eye injuries during the holiday period.

Dr. Newell urged parents not to buy arrows, darts or air rifle for their youngsters unless they are prepared to supervise their use.

It is seldom the eyes of the child using dangerous toys that are hurt, he said, but usually the eyes of a playmate or bystander.

Newell said figures compiled in Fayetteville, N. C., during Christmas week of 1954 indicate that 24 children required two or more weeks of treatment for eye injuries and seven required removal of an eye because of injury from toys or games.

The most dangerous toy to use, he said, is the pistol that shoots an innocent - appearing, rubber-tipped or suction cup-tipped dart by means of a spring.

Tough Attitude May Unite Berlin

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press International
PARIS (UPI) — A tough attitude on the part of the West and the East may unite Berlin, according to a Communist ultimatum to quit the city or face possible war, given renewed hope today to West Germany that East-West talks may yet reunite the divided city.

The American, British, and French foreign ministers met Sunday with the West German foreign minister and issued a communique reaffirming their intention to remain in West Berlin and to have free access to the city — advance rejection of any blockade attempt.

The Sunday talks began a week of important NATO meetings. Most important of these is the three-day session of the NATO council opening Tuesday. Today there was a series of lesser meetings including U.S.-Canadian defense talks.

The four ministers did not reply formally to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's Thanksgiving Day demand that Berlin be turned into a "free city" with all Allied troops withdrawn. But they stated their position in words so clear there could be no doubt of their firm intentions.

The four foreign ministers met Tuesday with the entire NATO council of ministers to discuss a reply to Khrushchev. Informed Western sources said they were prepared to discuss German reunification with the Soviets at any time but only on the basis of reunification following free all-German elections.

There already were Soviet complaints about any attempts to negotiate a German settlement.

Train Hits School Bus Five Injured

BRIDGEPORT, Mich. (UPI) — Five students were injured today when a Chesapeake & Ohio Railway freight train struck a stalled school bus at a grade crossing here.

One of the students, Edward Adams, 6, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw with a possible skull fracture. Three girls, Marie H. Robb, 10, Virginia Ferris, 11, and Mary Louise Schwartz, 6, escaped with minor injuries. The name of the fifth injured was not determined.

The bus, owned by Bridgeport public schools, had just made its final pickup and was "full" when it stalled at the Williamson Rt. crossing.

Joe Bomk, who operates a service station near the crossing, said he heard the bus driver frantically trying to start the stalled vehicle and then heard the whistle of the train.

He said he grabbed a red rug and ran down the tracks toward the train. He said the train was about a quarter of a mile from the intersection and a curve in the tracks prevented the engineer from seeing the stalled bus.

But the engineer acknowledged the warning signal and started to slow down immediately.

Bomk said a bus door was facing the approaching train and children poured out. He said the train was within a few feet of the bus.

The impact lifted the front of the bus about two feet in the air and spun it around.

A second bus was stopped behind the stalled bus but didn't dare to give the stranded vehicle a push since it might have been trapped in the path of the train.

United Press International
KENTUCKY — Mostly cloudy Tuesday with a chance of some snow in extreme west and turning colder. High 27 to 35.

Manhunt Still On For Murderer

EL CAJON, Calif. (UPI) — A manhunt for a 16-year-old boy, believed to have murdered a mother and her four children, spread today throughout the Southwest.

Carl Eder, of Irondquoit, N. Y., who was befriended by the family, fled Friday shortly before Mrs. Lois Pendergast, 37, was found by her husband fatally shot in the hallway of their home.

The couple's four children, three boys and a girl aged 2 to 9, were found in other parts of the house and an adjoining garage with their throats cut. Two of the children had been disemboweled.

Thomas Pendergast, 39, the husband and father, said Sunday after undergoing a seven and a half hour lie detector test that he planned to devote his life to church and youth welfare work.

The aircraft plant worker's lie detector test results were being evaluated. Findings will be known sometime late today or Tuesday, P-Wee Chief Joseph O'Connors said.

"It is only fair to clear this man to strengthen our case against the other (Eder)," O'Connors said.

The police chief said Pendergast's statements while being questioned with the polygraph "were consistent with what he told us before."

"I wanted the lie detector test," Pendergast said after the ordeal. "I believe in the detector. It is my witness next to the Lord."

Cars were checked at the nearby Mexican border for Eder. Roadblocks were manned at points along highways.

Graham Plea Sobers Clinton

CLINTON, Tenn. (UPI) — The people of this troubled city returned to their daily tasks today soothed by Billy Graham's plea that Clinton become a symbol of "civility, love and understanding."

The evangelist, holding a one-day revival Sunday, preached his message within steps of the bombed-out Clinton High School which was integrated despite prolonged violence in 1956.

He told an audience of more than 5,000, including a sprinkling of Negroes, that "time and understanding and Christian courage can achieve much more than hate and misunderstanding."

"Whatever our views about race problems," Graham said, "all civilized people are opposed to violence. Hot heads and cold hearts never solved anything."

"As a Christian and a southerner, I say we must not allow either integration or segregation to be our Gospel."

"We must respect the law. But keep in mind that it is powerless in itself to change the human heart, and must be supplanted by love."

Roy L. Smith, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon P. Smith of Route 4, Murray, Ky., receives an honorarium certificate and an engraved plaque during recruit graduation at the Naval Training Center Great Lakes, Ill.

Roman K. Schwartz, boatswain's mate first class, USN, Company Commander of "Hall of Fame Company", 398, made the presentation Nov. 29.

Smith was selected by his instructors, company commander and fellow company members.

Before entering the Navy in September 1958, he graduated from Murray High School.

Brush Fire Whips Toward Many Homes

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (UPI) — Turbulent 30-40 mile an hour winds whipped a roaring brush fire toward a canyon dotted with several hundred homes in Cleveland National Forest today.

Mountain cabin residents in the isolated area were ordered to evacuate, as were caretakers of a Methodist boys summer camp at San Juan Hot Springs 12 miles northeast of here.

Emer Osterman, fire coordinator for the state Forestry Service, said some 20,000 acres of valuable watershed brushland had been burned, 90 per cent of it open land.

Osterman said the firefighters were not too optimistic about control of the blaze and containment "certainly couldn't come before Tuesday."

Firefighters from as far north as the Oregon border were being flown in to fight the towering blaze which broke out Sunday afternoon and raced over the under-ry brush and squat trees in the Trabuco Mountains.

About 1,000 firefighters were on firelines by dawn.

Temperatures in the 80s and 90s and extremely low humidity erupted in southern California in the past two weeks. More than 21,000 acres and nearly 30 homes were destroyed as well as millions of dollars worth of valuable watershed in Malibu, Calif., by a fire which raged unchecked for more than three days until Dec. 5.

Return Marketing Card Fulton Urges Tobacco Growers

Farmers who produced Burley, Airedale and Fire-cured tobacco should not fail to return their marketing cards to the Calloway County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office at the close of the marketing season, H. B. Fulton of the county office said today.

He pointed out that return of the card is necessary for program operations and warned that failure to do so can cause reduction in 1959 acreage allotments.

Leg provides, Mr. Fulton said, that tobacco farm acreage allotments be reduced for failure to show disposition of the crops produced. The return of the marketing card is necessary for a complete record of such disposition.

Last year some producers in this area had their 1958 allotments reduced for failure to return program operations and warned that failure to do so can cause reduction in 1959 acreage allotments.

Mr. Fulton said the regulations provide that the producer must return his marketing card to the county office within 30 days after the close of the marketing season in the general locality.

Information Gained In Monkey Shot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — An Army spokesman has said that the first primate shot into space, a squirrel monkey, rode to his death to provide man valuable information about the effects of space travel on living organisms.

"Little Old Reliable," a vigorous specimen of his breed, rode 1,700 miles in the nose cone of a Jupiter missile and apparently died after the cone plunged into the south Atlantic Saturday.

Ships and planes searched the large area for hours but could find no trace of the cone.

But the Army said the experiment was successful because instruments fastened to the monkey's body sent back proof that long periods of weightlessness are only a little harmful to living creatures.

Despite the scientific importance of the monkey test, militant animal lover groups lodged stern protests. The reaction was not as violent as it was last year when the Russians sent up a dog, however.

Fresh Snow Sweeps Out Of North

United Press International
Fresh snow swept out of the Southland and the Northeast today. Weathermen forecast no major break in the bitter weather cloaking much of the nation.

The brunt of the Eastern storm moved out into the Atlantic Ocean Sunday night, but deposited moderate snowfall amounts along its way to southern New England. Earlier, the storm slammed into Dixie, dumping six inches of snow at Richmond, Va. It left one to four inches from northern South Carolina to southeastern New England.

As the cold snap stretched well into its second week, readings plunged to zero or below as far south as Fayetteville, Ark. During the night and sub-freezing temperatures ranged through Texas and northern Florida.

Weather Pattern Reversed
However, a warming trend in the northern plains created a reversal of the usual weather pattern. Great Falls and Cutbank, Mont., each recorded 35-degree readings at midnight, while along the Gulf residents of Mobile, Ala., and New Orleans shivered in 23 and 33-degree temperatures, respectively.

The Southland's cold wave was felt during the night from Texas to northern Florida, where at least five deaths have been attributed to the icy temperatures.

Oswego, N. Y., was pelted with four inches of snow Sunday morning, boosting the total that has fallen in that snow-crippled city in the last eight days to 85 inches.

Cleaved Digs Out
Skies cleared during the afternoon, and highway crews made the most of the reprieve to clear Oswego of snow and a foot and one-half layer of ice in the streets.

Hard Fighting Murray Pushes Maroons All The Way In Loss

If you want to win, you've got to fight every inch of the way. That's the silent challenge that the Murray State Racers hung at the Mississippi State Maroons Saturday and in the battle that ensued the Maroons edged by Murray State 63-62 before a crowd of 5,000 in the Murray State Sports Arena.

The eighth-ranked Maroons broke into an 8-4 lead but Terry Darnall and Dale Alexander knotted the score at 10-all. Mississippi moved into a slim lead but big Ken Peterson again deadlocked the contest 20-20 on a spinning hook. Jerry Graves picked up a charity toss for the Maroons and Terry Darnall followed through with a basket to give Murray State a 22-21 advantage. Murray moved ahead by four points on a basket by Alexander and a free throw by Ken Peterson. Wilkins came into the game with 8:06 showing on the clock and quickly flipped in a bucket to push the Racers out front 27-21.

Mississippi scored nine straight points in the closing minutes of the first half before the "Breds" could find the range. Harold Wilkins picked up a field goal and the Racers trailed by one, 29-30. Fisher connected on two free throws and Alexander and O'Riordan each tallied one for Murray trailing, 31-32.

All-American candidate, Bailey Howell had a "wet blanket" first half and collected only eight points, three field goals and one charity toss, as a result of the tenacious defense of hard working Ken Peterson. Even at that, Peterson had been forced to sit out the latter part of the half with three fouls. Howell's famed phenomenal scoring had been matched point for point by Peterson.

The pre-season pick for the Southeastern Conference Championship took the opening tip at the outset of the second half and commanded its one-point lead for three and one-half minutes until Johnny West tied the score 41-41 on a fielder. Howell scored on a charity toss and Wilkins retaliated with a one-pointer to deadlock the affair 42-42. Usher connected for the Maroons but Wilkins came through with a lane.

The Racers outscored the Maroons of Coach Babe McCarthy 27 to 18 on successful field goal attempts. Mississippi State connected on 27 of 31 free throw attempts for 97 per cent. Murray hit 8 of 15 charity tosses for 53 per cent. Murray was charged with 19 personals and one technical foul. The Maroons were charged with 19 personals.

Dale Alexander pushed in a fielder to narrow the margin to 55-58 and Brooks cut the gap to one point, 57-58. With a one point advantage, highly regarded Mississippi State stalled for four minutes. Bailey Howell drew a trip to the foul line with 1:29 remaining in the game and hit both tosses for a 60-57 lead. Terry Darnell displayed his veteran ability with a net sinking bucket that trimmed the margin to one, 60-60. With 37 seconds remaining Howell again drew a foul and connected on both attempts for another three point lead.

John Brooks scored on a fielder for the Racers with 40 seconds remaining. Murray trailed 61-62. Usher hit one of two free throw attempts with 11 seconds left on the clock. Murray raced down the court and passed to Terry Darnall who was fouled before he could get a shot off.

Terry drew only one shot with four seconds to go as the Maroons had committed only five personal fouls in the second half and the one plus one ruling was not in effect. Darnall's loss was good and Mississippi State had earned a one-point hard-fought victory over a gallant Murray team.

The one-point defeat was recorded by 5,000 Murray State fans as a tremendous victory for the Racers. The Thoroughbreds, Dale Alexander led the Racers scoring with 14 points. Terry Darnall tallied 18 points and Ken Peterson picked up 12 points. Howell had 18 points for Mississippi and Graves notched 17. Hull added 10 for the Maroons.

Murray State will meet the University of Mississippi here Saturday night in a bid to better its 2-2 mark.

Mississippi State (63)
Hull 10, Fisher 6, Graves 17, Howell 18, Usher 6, Keston 6.

O'Riordan 8, Darnall 13, Peterson 12, West 2, Wilkins 7, Alexander 14, Brooks 6.

Does She Like to Cook?

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
"DON'T give her a book—she's read one!" is a joke, son, especially if the "she" involved likes to cook and the volume in question is a new collection of recipes.
Can't Have Too Many
A lady who loves creating over a hot stove can't have too many cookbooks. She thumbs through new ones like a pirate in search of treasure, picks and chooses, tries and tastes and, when results please, adds another specialty to her repertoire.
So if you're stumped for a present, give her a cookbook! It's sure to make a hit.
South-of-the-border dishes are the specialty of "Elena's Secrets of Mexican Cooking."
The author, Elena Zelayeta, Mexican-born daughter of Spanish parents who were innkeepers, learned Mexican cooking as a child and turned to it as a career when her eyesight failed.
Blindness No Handicap
Despite blindness, she does all her own cooking, for a time ran a restaurant, has taught the blind, given cookery lessons and authored two other books.
This new volume offers a variety of native recipes, including, of course, one for famed tortillas (Mexican bread). Delicious served crisp, hot, and buttered, tortillas are also the basis for a number of other delicious dishes that the author tells American cooks how to make.

CROQUETTES, made with shrimp chopped fine in a blender, brown in oil. The recipe's from "The Far Eastern Epicure."

What time is it on our calendar clock? First a few short weeks to Christmas. May we pause here and say, this day which has been set aside to celebrate the most important event of mankind, our Savior's Birthday, has been so terribly commercialized, twisted, turned and distorted that many adults not only the children no longer realize its true meaning. This is tragic when adults turn bitter and say Christmas is for child-

Americans Goggle-Eyed At Sport

By DON BYERS
United Press International

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Skin diving, an almost unknown sport 30 years ago, has become a spare-time avocation for more than one million Americans in the past few years.

During the 1930's a handful of hardy pioneers took the first plunges into the clear waters of the Mediterranean Sea equipped with eye goggles and fish spears. But the sport was publicized little and spread slowly.

The exploits of wartime frogmen and development of a safe and relatively inexpensive self-contained underwater breathing apparatus (SCUBA) during World War II dramatically introduced sportsmen to the underwater world.

By 1947, compressed air tanks for breathing underwater, face plates for underwater vision and rubber foot fins for propulsion were readily available to U. S. enthusiasts. They took to the water in droves, particularly along the California and Florida coasts.

Many things lure these men (and a surprising number of women) to spend weekends and holidays 30 feet or more beneath wind-whipped waves.

Appealing to many divers is the thrill of pushing into unexplored submarine caves or canyons, where strange fish flash and relics from a sunken Spanish gold ship may suddenly appear out of the white sand.

Some relish a tugging chase after a large sea bass, spear poised for the kill, while others find a challenge in hunting with special adapted underwater cameras.

But all skin divers find balm for telephone-jangled nerves in this world of incredible beauty and grace where all activity seems to be in slow motion and the diver escapes gravity for a while to wheel and circle like a bird.

Clear water to dive in and $15 in cash will equip you for the sport. Here's all you need.

Everything Is Red But Bride At Wedding

By JOSEPH FLEMING
United Press International

BERLIN — (UPI) — German Communists no longer promise to love, honor and obey. Instead, they vow in their marriage ceremonies to work for the victory of Communism and to raise their children as the Party prescribes.

The girls are getting married in white bridal gowns at "Socialist weddings" on which photographs of Lenin and other Communist heroes look down.

The new Communist Marriage ceremony is part of the East German Communists' anti-religious campaign which includes attacks on baptism, confirmation and church weddings as "old fashioned." The Reds have substituted for these what they call "Socialist" observances.

They hope to wean still faithful East Germans away from religion by maintaining the shell of traditional religious ceremonies and giving them an atheistic content.

Flower girls, music from "Lohengrin" and bridal veils all are part of the Socialist wedding ceremony. But there is no clergyman or religious reading.

One girl who got married the Red way recommended it to others as "solemn but without humbug."

Similar to the wedding is the Communist "Christening" ceremony. The Communists call it "naming ceremony" — literally "name dedication."

At a ceremony in Dresden, Mayor Walter Weidauer told the parents of babies in arms. "These children will have the responsibility of seeing to it that the fight to build Socialism, to build a classless society, is completed."

"We expect from you parents that you educate your children that we can trust them to continue our work."

"Youth dedication" (Jugendweihe) services are a substitute for confirmation and the Communists place great pressure on parents to make their children attend. The children raise their hands and solemnly swear to be "faithful sons and daughters of our workers and farmers state."

They pledge to fight for the "noble cause" of Communism, maintain friendship with the Soviet Union and other "peace-loving nations."

The marriage and christening ceremonies are quite new and the Communists are trying to popularize them.

The youth dedication ceremony, however, is old and the Communist attempt to force it on parents has caused a dispute with the church.

Both the Evangelical (Protestant) and Catholic churches have denounced the youth ceremony as atheistic. They have warned parents their children will not be given religious confirmation if they attend the Communist rites.

Nevertheless, the Communists claim that this year 43 per cent of its children who graduated from elementary schools had attended the youth dedication ceremonies. Last year, the Reds say, the figure was 24 per cent.

"CARRY on the way boys," she said, "and hard as the devil to explain it the cops ever find it, out you've got the note, and you'll have to do the explaining."

After she had left, Handsome, a little anxiously, "Chester Baxter said he was going to find our Mr. Courtney Building tonight. Which means we'll near from him tonight."

"I know," Bingo said. "I don't like to sleep in my clothes either. But I guess we'd better be ready to move fast."

He took off his tie, slipped out of his shoes, loosened his belt, and made himself as comfortable as he could, pulling the blankets up to his chin. Handsome turned off the light.

Bingo had no idea what time it was when Handsome shook him very gently by the shoulder and whispered, "Bingo! Past!"

He sat up, wide awake.

"Bingo," Handsome whispered, very low, "I think we've got a prowler. I think someone's trying to get in our house."

"Don't get excited," Bingo hushed. "Don't turn the lights on. I won't make any noise." He wondered if he could hear the prowler's footsteps. He was sure he could hear the prowler's footsteps. He was sure he could hear the prowler's footsteps.

He thought I call the police? Handsome whispered.

"No!" Bingo said. "We'll handle this ourselves." He stood up, thinking his stars he had his clothes on. "It can't be Chester Baxter," he whispered, "he'd ring the bell." He drew a long breath. "We'd better look!"

The faint but definite sounds of someone in the garden had ceased momentarily. Now they began again, soft and stealthy. There was the unmistakable sound of a window being tried at the rear of the house.

As they slipped outside, Bingo realized that it must be near morning, there was a faint, grayish light.

They stole around the corner of the big house, keeping to the shadows of the wall through the rose garden, and then they saw him, a tall, attenuated figure, cautiously trying a window.

Bingo saw Handsome brace himself for a flying tackle, but out a quick restraining hand, thrust his right hand into the pocket of his jacket and said in a voice that, to him at least, sounded strong and steady, "Stand still, or I'll shoot!"

The man turned around, slowly. "Keep your hands where I can see them," Bingo barked, "and walk over here."

The dark figure moved closer, empty hands in sight. As the dim gray light struck his face, Bingo recognized the ice-eyed man who had been in the crowd the afternoon before. He didn't look ice-eyed now. He looked a little frantic.

"Well," Bingo said, "you pick

NEW YORK — (UPI) — If choreographer John Butler finds himself going 'round in circles on a TV stage, it's his own fault. Butler, like the U. S. Here are some of the assignments that Butler accepted this season: Choreography for "The Steve Allen Show" Dec. 7 and Dec. 14; three musical plays in the CBS-TV "Look Up and Live" series, Dec. 7, 14 and 28; the Dec. 14 presentation of "Annie and the Night Visitors" on NBC-TV, and the Thanksgiving Day presentation of "Die Fledermaus" by the Metropolitan Opera.

The choreographer also found time to undergo minor surgery in the midst of this activity. He left the hospital a few days early and performed his job from a cot placed on the rehearsal stages.

Women To Be Admitted To Scouting

For the first time in fifty years of Scouting, Women will be welcomed into the Boy Scout Movement in some capacity other than as a Den Mother Cub Scouts. Recent action of the National Council Executive Board authorized the establishment of a "Women's Reserve," which enables women to become registered members of the Boy Scouts of America and serve in various capacities. Mothers clubs, women who assist with training for Den Mothers, and various others who have helped with Scouting during past years will now have an official status as members. Mr. James C. Rieks, President of the Four Rivers said, "We are certainly happy that the fine women who have helped make the Scouting program a success through the years can now be full partners with us in an official way. We welcome them, and invite others to join with them in building Scouting for boys. Cub Scouting has grown rapidly because of the fine work that women have done and there are many things that women can do to make the Boy Scout and Explorer program more effective. Every troop and Explorer unit is urged to organize a Mothers Auxiliary to assist them and register these women officially in Scouting."

Space Age Teachers Go Back To School

By RICHARD F. ROPER

United Press International
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. —

(UPI)—Imagine the plight of a math or science teacher facing a classroom of curious youngsters whose fathers are blazing trails in the uncharted field of rocketry.

For three years, pretty June Rodgers has been embarrassed in her eighth and ninth grade math classes at nearby Cocoa Junior High School by such questions as, "How would a rocket fired from a space platform get any thrust if there's no air for it to push against?"

Because the field of missiles and rockets is so new there aren't any textbooks, the Cocoa chapter of the American Rocket Society's Florida division offered to instruct Brevard County teachers in the fundamentals of rocketry, but not just to save the teachers' embarrassment.

"The idea was that the teachers would pass this information on to the students," said Capt. Mike Sellers, head of the Navy's Polaris missile project at Cape Canaveral. "We hope some of them will want to go into this field eventually."

When the rocket group broached the idea to Brevard school authorities, they jumped at it. The result is a four-month program of instruction in which 31 teachers chosen from a much larger group of applicants attend a two-hour session every Thursday.

Originally the course was to be limited to 25 student-teachers. "But when six teachers showed up and said they wanted to watch through the windows, we went ahead and let them in," said the school official who referred members of the class.

The courses in this unprecedented program aren't highly technical, but they're imposing to the layman. Soon the harassed teachers will be able to expound on such subjects as the history and mathematics of rocket propulsion and thrust computations, and "flight mechanics," aerodynamics, and celestial mechanics.

Sellers said he has heard other parts of Florida are interested in starting a similar program, but the chances are the youngsters in other counties won't be as fortunate in getting instructors. Brevard County has probably the heaviest concentration of missile experts of any area in the country.

The course also will include talks on how to build a home-made rocket and the dangers of experimenting with explosives. "We hope the Brevard County students can also be interested in the principles of rocketry."

Miss Rodgers, 24, said she feels the best answer to the problem is to advise the eager youngsters to steer clear of the highly technical aspects of the field until they learn the basic knowledge of mathematics and science.

"But this course will certainly help me," she said. "With 80 per cent of my students children of men at the Cape I've been stumped more times than I'd like to admit."

In case you also were stumped by that power buried at Miss Rodgers' math class, a rocket in space doesn't push against anything. The force generated by a rocket engine is like water spurting from the nozzle of a hose—if the nozzle is held stationary, it will move in the opposite direction. Got it?

Mental Hospital Will Open Doors

DENVER — (UPI) — A newly organized hospital is treating a "borderline group" of mentally ill patients in Denver without locks or restraints.

Colorado State Rep. John E. Streltzer, president of the National Mental Health Council, said its patients are persons too sick to be at home but not sick enough to be placed behind locked doors.

"In severity of illness these patients are on the borderline between those who are easily able to function in spite of their problems and those who have lost the ability to deal adequately with everyday problems," Streltzer said.

He said it was frequently found that these patients would have little hope of getting well if they were to continue living without medical aid.

The department has an record, to-day 22 known active cases of Tuberculosis and three cases that received hospitalization and treatment and are now inactive. Health Department nurses have made 191 visits to the active cases giving advice and counsel and encouraging patients to make regular visits to their family physician for check-up. The Health Department health education tries to help patients out of positions where they are a threat to the community.

During the year there has been a total of 9 patients in the Tuberculosis hospital at Madisonville, Kentucky. At the present time there are 3 Calloway County patients hospitalized there.

The health department also spends much time trying to get those people who are known contacts of active Tuberculosis to contact their family physician for x-ray. Early discovery of Tuberculosis is of utmost importance in the treatment of the disease.

TB One Of Primary Problems

Tuberculosis is one of Kentucky's greatest communicable disease problems. Even though medical science can treat and cure Tuberculosis if found in the very early stages, it continues to attack people with disregard to race, color or creed. The great problem in Tuberculosis is that of case finding, followed by adequate hospitalization and treatment. If all active cases were detected and adequately treated there would be no more germs to spread the disease. The difficulty is that neither testing nor treatment is complete in one area.

The department has an record, to-day 22 known active cases of Tuberculosis and three cases that received hospitalization and treatment and are now inactive. Health Department nurses have made 191 visits to the active cases giving advice and counsel and encouraging patients to make regular visits to their family physician for check-up. The Health Department health education tries to help patients out of positions where they are a threat to the community.
